[LPL Electrical Services Limited v Kershaw Mechanical Services Ltd, TCC, 2 February 2001].
Contract Jnl, 2001 May 31, pp57

C0957 Geoff Brewer considers whether oral contracts can be referred to adjudication.
Article in English, ports.
Whether oral contracts may be subject to the provisions of the Construction Act. All the terms, and not merely the existence, of a construction contract have to be evidenced in writing if the contract is to be capable of being referred to adjudication. [RJT Consulting Engineers Limited v DM Engineering (NI) Limited, Court of Appeal, 8 March 2002].
Contract Jnl, 2002 Mar. 20, pp28

C0958 Geoff Brewer examines the validity of disputes and counterclaims made after adjudicators' decisions.
Article in English, ports.
Whether a set off or cross claim can be raised to defeat enforcement of an adjudicator's decision. Adjudicators' decisions will normally be enforced directly upon their own terms, without regard to the merits of concurrent claims or counterclaims between the parties not raised in the adjudication. [Solland International Limited v Daraydan Holdings Limited, TCC, 15 February 2002].
Contract Jnl, 2002 Mar. 6, pp24

against the employer's contractual rights. An estoppel will occur where one party represents that it does not intend to enforce its legal rights and the other party acts in reliance upon that representation. [London Borough of Lewisham v Shephard Hill Engineering, TCC, 30 July 2001].
Contract Jnl, 2001 Aug. 30, pp20

C0962 Geoff Brewer of Brewer Consulting considers procedural errors by adjudicators.
Article in English, ports.
Various points concerning the enforceability of adjudicators' decisions. Procedural errors by the adjudicator in respect of the crystallisation of matters in dispute may give rise to an error of jurisdiction, rendering the decision, in part or in whole, unenforceable. [Barr Limited v Law Mining Limited, Outer House Court of Session, 15 June 2001].
Contract Jnl, 2001 Sept. 26, pp23

C0963 Geoff Brewer of Brewer Consulting considers requests to change an adjudicator's decision.
Article in English, ports.
Procedures for resisting enforcement of an adjudicators decision. Requesting an adjudicator to correct his decision under the slip rule or making part payment in respect of an adjudicator's decision is inconsistent with seeking to overturn the decision for lack of jurisdiction. [Shimizu Europe Limited v Automajor Limited, TCC, 17 January 2002].
Contract Jnl, 2002 Mar. 13, pp20

C0964 Geoff Brewer of Brewer Consulting considers whether adjudicators' decisions are independent of contract terms.
Article in English, ports.
Whether a set-off can be raised to defeat the enforcement of an adjudicator's decision. An adjudicator's decision may be regarded as no more than a decision about rights and liabilities accruing from the underlying contract, thus a valid contractual set-off may be used to resist enforcement of the adjudicator's decision. [David McLean Housing Contractors Limited v Swansea Housing Association Limited, TCC, 27 July 2001].
Contract Jnl, 2002 Jan. 16, pp17

C0965 Geoff Brewer of Brewer Consulting considers the adjudication ambush.
Article in English, ports.
The extent to which new facts and matters may be relied upon in an adjudication. While a party can refine its arguments for the purpose of adjudication, if it intends to rely upon facts, legal argument or expert opinion not previously canvassed, the other party must be given sufficient opportunity to respond before commencement of an adjudication. [Edmund Nuttall Limited v RG Carter Limited, TCC, 21 March 2002].

C0967 Geoff Brewer of Brewer Consulting examines adjudication on oral contracts.
Article in English, ports.
Adjudication on oral contracts. Whether oral contracts may be subject to the provisions of the Housing Grants, Construction and Regeneration Act 1996. Evidence that supports the existence of an oral agreement, such as invoices or minutes, will be sufficient to bring the agreement within the remit of the 1996 Act. [RJT Consulting Engineers Limited v DM Engineering (NI) ITD, TCC, 9 May 2001].
Contract Jnl, 2001 Sept. 5, pp27

C0968 Geoff Brewer of Brewer Consulting examines adjudicator's enforcement.
Article in English, ports.
Whether an adjudicator's perceived error can be categorised as an excess of jurisdiction. The courts may be developing a more interventionist approach to the processes for enforcement of adjudicator's decisions by characterising adjudicator's errors as matters jurisdiction. [C&B Scene Concept Design Ltd v Isobars Ltd, 20 June 2001].
Contract Jnl, 2001 Aug. 15, pp20

C0969 Geoff Brewer of Brewer Consulting examines an adjudicator's failure to deal with the issues.
Article in English, ports.
Unfortunately there appears to be a lack of consistency in the decisions of the courts upon how to categorise adjudicators' errors.

C1487 The reuse of water towers.
Article in English by Michael Gould; elevns, photos, plans, refs.
As changes take place in water-supply practice, numerous water towers have become redundant. This paper reviews the current position regarding the reuse of redundant water towers for other purposes. Following short background notes on the provision and type of water towers, the paper considers the three most common difficulties encountered in undertaking conversions: the poor attitude of many developers to possible reuse; the problem posed by an exposed metal tank and the visual effect of its removal; and the difficulties that may arise in providing access to the tower.

Includes: Reaping rewards of efficient HVAC design, p. 12-13; Natural ventilation, by Paul Compton, p. 14-15; Chilled water systems air conditioning, by Ian Roper, p. 16-17; The special features of radiant ceiling panels, p. 18-19; The use of ultraviolet light for the disinfection of airborne pathogens, p. 20-22. Bldg Engineer, vol. 77, no. 3, 2002 Mar., pp12-22

Engineering services: energy conservation: & climate

E0294 Energy savings potential of chilled-ceiling combined with desiccant cooling in hot and humid climates. Article in English by J L Niu and others; diagrs, graphs, refs, tables. Energy & Buildings, vol. 34, no. 5, 2002 June, pp487-495

Engineering services: energy conservation: calculations, data: South Africa: Pretoria: University of Pretoria: Human Sciences Building

E0295 HVAC control strategies to enhance comfort and minimise energy usage. Article in English by E H Mathews and others; diagrs, graphs, refs, tables. The comfort enhancement and energy saving potential of HVAC control strategies are determined for the Human Sciences Building at the University of Pretoria. Energy & Buildings, vol. 33, no. 8, 2001 Oct., pp853-863

Engineering services: energy conservation: economics: calculations, data: Greece

E0296 Feasibility of energy saving renovation measures in urban buildings: the impact of energy prices and the acceptable pay back time criterion. Article in English by Agis M Papadopoulos and others; graphs, refs, tables. Study of conditions in northern Greece. Energy & Buildings, vol. 34, no. 5, 2002 June, pp455-466

Engineering services: finance: Great Britain

E0297 Private finance initiative. Article in English by Danny Coyle, and others; diagrs, ports, refs. Includes: Buy now, pay later?, by Danny Coyle, p. 34-35; A class of their own, by Karen Fletcher, p. 38-41 [PFI in schools]; Health treatment, by Stephen Kennett, p. 42-43 [PFI in hospitals]; Engineering PFI, by Andy Keelin, p. 45-46. Bldg Services, vol. 24, no. 12, 2002 Dec., pp38-46

Engineering services: Great Britain

E0298 Utilitas, firmitas, venustas: Max Fordham LLP. Article in English by Stefan Behnisch; diagrs, details, graphs, illus, models, photos, plans, ports, refs, sketches. The work of engineering practice Max Fordham & Associates Includes: Taking the brief - the Great Glass House, National Botanic Garden of Wales (Foster & Partners), p. 4-5; Robust design - research machine: Institute of Medical Sciences, University of Aberdeen (David Murray Associates), p. 6-7; Robust design - form follows funk: National Centre for Popular Music, Sheffield (Branson Coates Architecture), p. 8-9; Robust design - for study: Rutherford Information Services building, Goldsmiths College, London (Allies & Morrison), p. 10-11; Robust design - pure theatre: Savoy Theatre, London (Whitfield Partners), p. 12-13; Detailing - Tate Liverpool, the lighting room, p. 14-15; Interfaces: making all the building's elements work together, p. 16-17; Delight and fun: engineering for entertainment, p. 18-19; Managing daylight, p. 20-21; Managing airflow, p. 22-23; Ground coupling: using the great heat store beneath our feet, p. 24-25; Invention: creating new solutions, p. 26-27; Renewable energy systems - Renewable Energy Centre, King's Langley (Studio E Architects), p. 28-29; Using plants: natural, green, practical and biodegradable, p. 30-31; Urban futures: generating dynamic, attractive and sustainable communities, p. 32-33. Archtl Review, vol. 211, supplement, 2002, pp3-34

Engineering services: Great Britain: London: Westminster: University of London: London School of Economics & Political Science

E0299 London School of Economics: a new library service from Oscar Faber; Architects: Foster & Partners. Article in English. Bldg Engineer, vol. 77, no. 2, 2002 Feb., pp24-25

Engineering services: law: Great Britain

E0300 Where will it all end?. Article in English by Emma Leask. Personal liability of professionals. Bldg Services, vol. 23, no. 11, 2001 Nov., pp24

Engineering services: management

E0301 Managing the commissioning of building services. Article in English by Keith Potts and Mike Wall; diagrs, refs, tables. Engineering, construction & archtl management, vol. 9, no. 4, 2002 Aug., pp336-344

Engineering services: management: systems: Great Britain

E0302 Market watch: building management systems. Article in English by Karen Fletcher. Bldg Services, vol. 24, no. 6, 2002 June, pp16-17

Engineering services: management: by computer

E0303 Intelligent buildings. Article in English by Chris Chapman, and others; diagrs, photos. Includes: The IT factor, by Chris Chapman, p. 37-41; Technological winds of change, by Tony Elphick, p. 46-49; Building of the future, by Simon Coleman, p. 51-52. Bldg Services, vol. 24, no. 6, 2002 June, pp37-41, 46-49, 51-52

Engineering services: management: by computer: & environment

E0304 Demonstration intelligent building - a methodology for the promotion of total sustainability in the built environment. Article in English by H W Kua and S E Lee; diagrs, refs. Bldg & Environment, vol. 37, no. 3, 2002 Mar., pp231-240

Engineering services: management: by computer: Great Britain

E0305 Intelligent buildings. Article in English by Derek J Clements-Croome, and others; diagrs, illus, photos, refs. Includes: Building a better future, by Derek J Clements-Croome, p. 30-31; Smart moves, by Andy Barton, p. 33-34; Open question, by Stephen Kennett, p. 36-37; Open systems in action, by Ken Bromley and Mike Perry, p. 39-41. Bldg Services, vol. 23, no. 8, 2001 Aug., pp30-41

Engineering services: management: Great Britain

E0306 Thinking time. Article in English by Karen Fletcher; ports. A group discussion on how the industry might collaborate better. Bldg Services, vol. 24, no. 10, 2002 Oct., pp30-37

E0307 What can we do about project feedback?. Article in English by Roderic Bunn; ports. On post-occupancy satisfaction and feedback to building services engineers. Bldg Services, vol. 23, no. 9, 2001 Sept., pp52-53, 56-57

Engineering services: occupants' aspect: Great Britain

E0308 Learning from PROBE. Article in English by Robert Cohen and Roderic Bunn; graphs, ports. Reports on the CIBSE East Midlands Region meeting in March to discuss the findings from recent PROBE (Post-occupancy review of buildings & their engineering) investigations. Bldg Services, vol. 23, no. 5, 2001 May, pp63-65

E0309 What can we do about project feedback?. Article in English by Roderic Bunn; ports. On post-occupancy satisfaction and feedback to building services engineers. Bldg Services, vol. 23, no. 9, 2001 Sept., pp52-53, 56-57

Engineering services: occupants' aspect: surveys: by computer: Internet: Great Britain

E0310 Internet occupancy feedback. Article in English by Ivan Khoo and J Shimmin; diagrs, photos, refs. Bldg Services, vol. 23, no. 10, 2001 Oct., pp61-62

Engineering services: prefabrication: cost: Great Britain

E0311 Cost model. Prefabrication of services. Article in English by Davis Langdon & Everest and Mott Green & Wall; photos, tables. On the cost benefits of pre-assembled and pre-fabricated building services installations. Bldg Services, vol. 23, no. 11, 2001 Nov., pp28-30

Engineering services: prefabrication: Great Britain: London: Westminster: Paddington Central

E0312 Partners in time. Article in English by Stephen Kennett; photos. On the use of extensive modularisation at phase 1 of the Paddington Central development in west London. Bldg Services, vol. 24, no. 3, 2002 Mar., pp34-36

Engineering services: standardisation: Great Britain

E0313 Standard solutions. Article in English by Nick Barnard, and others; illus, refs. Can standard solutions deliver productivity and quality benefits to you and your clients. Bldg Services, vol. 23, no. 12, 2001 Dec., pp36-37

Engineering services: supply: Great Britain: London: Greenwich: Greenwich Millennium Village

E0314 My generation. Article in English by Josephine Smit; photos. On the local power generators as part of the

E0314 continued
Greenwich Millennium Village project (Ralph Erskine / EPR Architects / Proctor Matthews).
Building Homes, no. 6, 2001 June, pp42-45

Engineering services: surveys: Great Britain

E0315 Learn what you earn.
Article in English by Karen Fletcher and Hays Montrose, and others; refs, tables.
Includes: Preparing future engineers, by John Gilleard, p. 43 [What industry professionals really think of building services engineers].
Bldg Services, vol. 24, no. 4, 2002 Apr., pp34-43

Engineering services: systems

E0316 The CPD collection. Open protocol initiatives.
Article in English by Rob Moult and Tim Dwyer; diagrs, refs.
Open systems allow building services professionals to implement new types of applications that can reduce energy, operations and maintenance costs of a building.
Bldg Services, vol. 23, no. 6, 2001 June, pp87-90

Engineering services: testing

E0317 Special issue. Building performance simulation at the start of the 3rd millennium.
Article in English by John Burnett, and others; diagrs, graphs, illus, photos, refs, tables.
Includes: Mitigation of extremely low frequency magnetic fields from electrical installations in high-rise buildings, by John Burnett and Patrick Du Yaping, p. 769-775; Room thermal modelling adapted to the test of HVAC control systems, by P Riederer, and others, p. 777-790; The adaptive simulation of convective heat transfer at internal building surfaces, by Ian Beausoliel-Morrison, p. 791-806; Design analysis integration: supporting the selection of energy saving building components, by Pieter de Wilde, p. 807-816; On the natural displacement flow through a full-scale enclosure, and the importance of the radiative participation of the water vapour content of the ambient air, by S A Howell and I Potts, p. 817-823; Techniques for managing planar daylight data, by Daniel C Glaser and M Susan Ubbelohde, p. 825-831; A daylight simulation tool for urban and architectural spaces - application to transmitted direct and diffuse light through glazing, by Francis Miguet and Dominique Groleau, p. 833-843; Assessing energy, lighting, room acoustics, occupant comfort and environmental impacts performance of building with a single simulation program, by S Citherlet and J Hand, p. 845-856; On approaches to couple energy simulation and computational fluid dynamics programs, by Zhiqiang Zhai, and others, p. 857-864; Integrating CFD and building simulation, by M Bartak, and others, p. 865-871; Automatically generated zonal models for building air flow simulation: principles and applications, by Marjorie Musy, and others, p. 873-881; Practical application of an uncertainty approach for hygrothermal building simulations - drying of an AAC flat roof, by Andreas H Holm and Hartwig M Kuenzel, p. 883-889; Trends in building simulation, by Godfried Augenbroe, p. 891-902; A methodology for building energy modelling and calibration in warm climates, by A Pedrini, and others, p. 903-912.

E0319 A low environmental impact anidolic facade.
Article in English by Rene Altherr and Jean-Bernard Gay; diagrs, details, graphs, photos, refs, tables.
Bldg & Environment, vol. 37, no. 12, 2002 Dec., pp1409-1419

E0320 Claves del diseno bioclimatico [Some key points in bioclimatic design].
Article in Spanish by Manuel Martin Monroy; diagrs, graphs, illus, plans.
Summaries in Summary in English (p. B014-B016).
Basa, no. 24, 2001, pp148-159

E0321 Panel game.
Article in English by Douglas Clarkson; photos, refs, tables.
The author investigates the potential for solar energy to be cost-effectively incorporated within hospital buildings.
Hospital Development, vol. 32, no. 6, 2001 June, pp31-33

E0322 Plastic fantastic.
Article in English by Austin Williams; illus, photos.
Inverting conventional light-emitting technology will allow solar electricity to be created from cheap plastic panels.
Archts' Jnl, vol. 216, no. 12, 2002 Oct. 3, pp34-35

E0323 Solceller i arkitekturen [Solar cells in architecture].
Article in Danish by Gusta Clasen and Kim Wittchen; photos.
Arkitekten (Copenhagen), vol. 104, no. 11, 2002 May, pp2-6

E0324 Special issue. Envelope and solar shading.
Article in English, diagrs, details, elevns, illus, models, photos, plans, sketches, secns.
Includes: Visitor attraction, Loch Lomond (Page & Park Architects), p. 10-11; House extension, Richmond-upon-Thames (John Rich Architects), p. 12, 15; Keble College residences, Oxford University (Rick Mather Architects), p. 16-17; Millennium Library, Calne (Aaron Evans Associates), p. 18, 21; House extension, Fenay Bridge, Huddersfield (Bareham Meddings), p. 22-23; Clissold Leisure Centre, Hackney, London (Hodder Associates), p. 24, 27; Coalhill mixed use development, Leith (Allan Murray Architects), p. 28-29.
Architecture Today, AT detail supplement no. 3, 2002 Apr., pp10-42

E0325 Special issue. Proceedings of the International conference on solar energy in buildings, CISBAT '99, Lausanne, Switzerland, 22-23 September 1999.
Article in English by Marilyne Andersen and others; diagrs, graphs, photos, refs, tables.
Includes: Experimental assessment of bi-directional transmission distribution functions using digital imaging techniques, by Marilyne Andersen and others, p. 417-431; Optical and thermal performance of glazing with integral venetian blinds, by J Breitenbach and others, p. 433-442; Life cycle assessment applied to the comparative evaluation of single family houses in the French context, by B L P Peuportier, p. 443-450; Integration in building physics simulation, by S Citherlet and others, p. 451-461; Advanced control strategy of a solar domestic hot water system with a segmented auxiliary heater, by T Prud'homme and D Gillet, p. 463-475; An innovative lighting controller integrated in a self-adaptive building control system, by A Guillemin and N Morel, p. 477-487; Must cold air down draughts be compensated when using highly insulating windows?, by T Rueegg and others, p. 489-493; Real heat recovery with air handling units, by C-A Roulet and others, p. 495-502; Comparison of the thermal performance of double U-pipe borehole heat exchangers measured in situ, by D Pahud and B Matthey, p. 503-507; Cooling and preheating with buried pipe systems: monitoring, simulation and economic aspects, by Pierre Hollmuller and Bernard Lachal, p. 509-518.
Energy & Buildings, vol. 33, no. 5, 2001 May, pp417-518

E0326 Special issue. Solares Bauen [Solar architecture].
Article in English, German by Andreas Gabriel and others; photos, plans, secns.
Includes: Climatically responsive building as a matter of course, by Andreas Gabriel, p. 716-717; Buildings that bask in the sun: solar construction - the basis of post-fossil architecture, by Dirk Althaus, p. 718-722; Does climatically responsive construction lead to a specific formal language, by Jurgen Roloff, p. 723-726; Solar house in Ebnat-Kappel, p. 736-737; Solar school in the Himalayas (Christian Hlade), p. 738-740; House in Langenzersdorf (Gerhard Steixner), p. 744-748; Housing development in Wolfurt (Gerhard Zweier), p. 749-753; Terraced house in Ikast (Tegnestuen Vandkunsten), p. 754-757; Housing estate in Kolding (Nielsen Nielsen & Nielsen), p. 758-761; Passive energy terraced housing in Ulm (Bruckner Architekten), p. 762-765; Living and working in Rosenheim (Hirner & Riehl with Peter Kunze), p. 766-771; Office building in Solihull (Arup Associates), p. 772-775; Technical college in Kufstein (Henke & Schreieck), p. 776-782; Squaring the circle: from building technology to energy design, by Gerhard Hausladen and Michael de Saldanha, p. 788-791; Architectural and engineering teamwork: a prerequisite for solar construction, by Matthias Schuler and Gunter Lohnert, p. 792-795; Solar research station, by Daniel Westenberger and Thomas Herzog, p. 796-798.

Article in English by Bet McLeod and others; illus, photos, plans, ports.
An exhibition at the Dulwich Picture Gallery pays comprehensive tribute of one of Britain's greatest connoisseur-collectors, William Beckford. Articles celebrate his dazzling career with new research on his Gothic palace, Fonthill Abbey in Wiltshire - its landscape, interiors and influence. Includes: Treasures of England's wealthiest son, by Bet McLeod, p. 40-45 [The author, co-curator of the exhibition, reveals some of the treasures it has brought to light]; Inside Beckford's landscape of the mind, by Tim Mowl, p. 60-63 [A remarkable sequence of grottoes populates the landscape round Fonthill. Although often attributed to Beckford himself, newly discovered documents make it clear that they are the work of his father in the 1740s - the author explores Alderman Beckford's garden and explains how it haunted his son]; Knights in painted glass, by Sarah Baylis, p. 64-67 [One of the most influential aspects of the interior of Fonthill Abbey was its stained glass, designed for Beckford by William Hamilton. The author traces the scheme's remaining fragments and explains the lengths Beckford and Hamilton went to in their search for medieval authenticity]; Echoes of Fonthill, by Michael Hall, p. 68-71 [Fonthill Abbey has fallen and Beckford's treasures are scattered over the world, yet British country houses and their collections reveal how the taste he helped to create remained vibrantly influential throughout the 19th century].

G0054 Locating the georgic: from the 'ferme ornee' to the model farm.
Article in English by Laura B Sayre; illus, photos, refs.
The term was coined by Stephen Switzer around 1729. '.. although definitions of the ferme ornee shift slightly over the course of the long eighteenth century, some version of the form is to be found at every significant stage in the development of the quintessentially 'English' landscape garden, as that story is typically told. This coincidence suggests two additional points: first, the extraordinary persistence in the georgic impulse to combine profit and pleasure in designed landscapes; and second, the surprising fertility of that combination for the discovery of new understandings of the countryside.'.

G0082 Pictures in the landscape.
Article in English by Tim Richardson; photos, ports.
Despite being packed with contemporary sculpture, Jack Lenor Larsen's garden at LongHouse Reserve on Long Island is not merely a backdrop for the collection, because he finds plants as stimulating as art. Instead, as the author reports, there is an interchange between sculpture and horticulture which results in dynamic visual effects.

H0179 The 'solar eye' of vision: emergence of the skyscraper-viewer in the discourse on heights in New York City, 1890-1920.
Article in English by Meir Wigoder; illus, photos, refs.
This article explores the social and urban circumstances that made it possible for Alvin Langdon Coburn, the celebrated American Pictorialist photographer, to turn his camera upon Madison Square in 1912 from the vantage point of the Metropolitan Life Tower, and thus to create what is said to be the first abstraction of a city viewed from above. The paper defines how the birth of the modern skyscraper-viewer corresponded to a period of urban transformation in New York City between 1890 and 1920.

H0485 A reconstruction of Thomas Wolsey's Great Hall at Hampton Court Palace.
Article in English by Jonathan Foyle; diagrs, illus, photos, plans, refs, tables.
'It is now clear that Thomas Wolsey built a Great Hall at Hampton Court from 1515-c. 1521. Through a metrological analysis, the form of this building is re-established, and its relationship with the masonry of attributed buildings suggests William Vertue as its designer. Wolsey can now be credited for redefining the Great Hall as the first room in a sequence of elevated state apartments. A new understanding of the Great Hall's formal relationship with the Great Chamber has introduced a possible early example of the piano nobile in England as a context for Wolsey's Italianate decoration.'.

H0581 'Deeds of wanton destruction': the story of the Frankish Tower on the Athenian Acropolis.
Article in English by Mary Beard; illus, photos, ports, refs.
The Frankish Tower was in fact built by the Florentine Acciaiuoli family who ruled Athens from the late 14th century to the 1450s. The significance of the disputes around the demolition, in 1875, of the Frankish Tower is that it was the first time that there was any widespread, vocal challenge to the classicizing regime that determined the conservation and restoration of the Athenian Acropolis; it was the first time that the claims of all the other periods that had a stake in Athenian history were publicly canvassed.

H0589 Community involvement in a housing renewal project in the Old City of Jerusalem.
Article in English by Eman Assi; photos, plans, refs.
Housing renewal is a means of preserving buildings of architectural and historic significance as well as a process for returning property to a useful state. This paper documents the experience of the technical office of the Old City of Jerusalem Revitalization Program in rehabilitation and housing renewal. Two historically important residential buildings - Hosh Nseibeh and Hosh Jaber - are used as case studies illustrating the challenges and problems faced in the rehabilitation process. The paper concludes that in a project that requires community involvement, one should not only identify goals and objectives, but also analyze the techniques that are available and the resources they require. The main source of user satisfaction is not so much the degree to which the needs of the clients have been met, but rather their feeling of having influenced the final outcome.

H1170 Chateau de Compiegne, Oise, France.
Article in English by John Cornforth; illus, photos, plans.
When the monumental Chateau de Compiegne was rebuilt (between 1751 and 1786 to designs by Ange-Jacques Gabriel) and redecorated by Louis XV and Louis XVI, an understated style was chosen, in keeping with the building's relatively informal purpose as a hunting palace. This article illustrates its 18th-century decoration.

An exhibition at the Dulwich Picture Gallery pays comprehensive tribute of one of Britain's greatest connoisseur-collectors, William Beckford. Articles celebrate his dazzling career with new research on his Gothic palace, Fonthill Abbey in Wiltshire - its landscape, interiors and influence. Includes: Treasures of England's wealthiest son, by Bet McLeod, p. 40-45 [The author, co-curator of the exhibition, reveals some of the treasures it has brought to light]; Inside Beckford's landscape of the mind, by Tim Mowl, p. 60-63 [A remarkable sequence of grottoes populates the landscape round Fonthill. Although often attributed to Beckford himself, newly discovered documents make it clear that they are the work of his father in the 1740s - the author explores Alderman Beckford's garden and explains how it haunted his son]; Knights in painted glass, by Sarah Baylis, p. 64-67 [One of the most influential aspects of the interior of Fonthill Abbey was its stained glass, designed for Beckford by William Hamilton. The author traces the scheme's remaining fragments and explains the lengths Beckford and Hamilton went to in their search for medieval authenticity]; Echoes of Fonthill, by Michael Hall, p. 68-71 [Fonthill Abbey has fallen and Beckford's treasures are scattered over the world, yet British country houses and their collections reveal how the taste he helped to create remained vibrantly influential throughout the 19th century].

Article in English by John Cornforth; photos, plans.
The Baroque west range of Stoneleigh Abbey, near Kenilworth in Warwickshire, was left unfinished and unfurnished when the 3rd Lord Leigh died in 1738. It had been begun in 1720 to designs by Francis Smith of Warwick. The 4th Lord Leigh started the works again with William Smith (Francis's son) as architect. Now, as the house emerges from half a decade of repair, a comparison of inventories throws light on how the principal rooms were originally conceived and their uses altered later.

H1341 House for an Art Lover.
Article in English by Graham Roxburgh; illus, photos, ports, secns.
At the threshold of the 20th century one of Scotland's most admired architects came into prominence in Europe. One of his most important designs was a competition entry for a large modern mansion set in parkland. As a result of wide publication the unbuilt design became a seminal influence in the development of the Modern Movement. The author presents the story of how Charles Rennie Mackintosh's design for a 'House for an Art Lover' was finally built in a Glasgow park some 70 years after his death.
